Looking back at the exam

Right after you get an exam back is a great time to reflect on what happened and make plans for how to prepare for the next exam. Please think over these questions, answer them below, and hand them in so I can get a sense of what people are thinking. I'll return them to you in a few days.

1. On this exam, did you do better than you expected, worse, or about the same?
2. What went well on the exam and why? Please give specifics.
3. What can you do next time to be better prepared for the exam?
4. What did you do to prepare for the exam that really helped?
5. How much effort did you put into preparing for the exam? How much time did you study? Did you work alone or in groups? How did you study?
6. What advice would you give to a student next semester about how to prepare for this exam? Start studying on day 1 of class? Wait until the night before? Do 500 problems? I will be glad to use your quotes to help next semester's students!
